

of the bookmaker, he was summoned to appear before the grand jury.

With the man who bought the revolver was a woman, heavily veiled, but the pawnbroker failed to identify her as the person, when brought face to face with the actress.

Many letters have been received by Judge Davis from the men chosen as the special panel, to the effect that they are unwilling to serve on a trial which may mean the forfeiture of a woman's life.

UNREMITTING HUNT FOR BLACK ARROW

Search Continues for Two Unclaimed Envelopes.

CITY RAKED WITH FINE COMB

Thousands Eagly for Easy Money Spend Time in Capitol Park and on Pennsylvania Avenue.

No one has yet claimed the Black Arrow money which will be paid to the lucky persons finding the two envelopes which were hidden on Pennsylvania Avenue northwest, and in the northwest section of the Capitol Grounds.

The search continues in the big park and along the broad thoroughfare with unabated eagerness, and with as much earnestness of purpose as when the envelopes bearing the broad Black Arrow were first placed in their hiding places.

Two of the envelopes have been found of those hidden last Monday, and two still await a claimant.

Damp grass and cold weather make no difference to hunters after money. They are after the black arrow, and nothing else matters.

Early Morning Hunt.

Early in the morning most of the searchers are middle-aged men, usually staid and respectable, but now excited and eager. At 5.30 they leave for their work, and their places are taken by messenger boys and boys who have stayed away from school in order to join in the search; girls, young ladies, in short every description of people; each hoping that he or she will be the lucky one.

Almost from the start, the groto at the Capitol Park has been the center of interest. A few daily give their attention to the inside, but more are convinced that the money is secreted in the vines or dense shrubbery in the neighborhood. As a result, the watchman is kept busy preventing overzealous searchers from climbing the fence surrounding the groto, and trying into the bushes, or raking over the leaves.

Several times, as the shrubbery bears witness, he has been eluded, but usually he is in the immediate vicinity of the groto, his eye on every searcher.

Law Troublesome.

This fact seems to convince the fortune hunters they have discovered the hiding place, and all assure one another that they were allowed to violate the trespass law for only a few minutes, the money would speedily be found.

Among the persistent searchers in the Capitol grounds is an old woman accompanied by two little children, a boy and a girl. They are all three armed with sticks and may be seen poking industriously here and there in the shrubbery. Seven o'clock in the morning finds them hard at it and they poke away until the shades of evening fall.

The men employed to keep the grounds clean are also eager participants in the money hunt. Armed with their long rakes, they leave nothing undisturbed, and the Street Cleaning Department freely admits that never before have the park grounds been so thoroughly overhauled and consequently kept in good condition.

Faithful Workers.

There are three youngsters who are particularly persistent in their efforts to obtain some of the easy money hidden on Pennsylvania Avenue. They have formed what they term the "Black Arrow Partnership," and spend every spare moment in a systematic search. All three are fitted with long steel wires. One gives his individual attention to the sidewalk trees, another rakes behind every sign with his wire, and the third inspects the basements, loose boards, and rubbish.

As soon as one of the envelopes has been presented, announcements of the fact, together with the name of the finder, will be posted on the Times' bulletin board.

JAPANESE INVADE CHEFOO HARBOR AFTER SHIP

it will involve both the empire and the church in ruin.

The Emperor, who was greatly perturbed by M. Pobedonostzeff's arguments, at once summoned Prince Sviatopole-Mirsky and spoke earnestly to him of the dangers of his system which, he said, might well lead to the imposition of constitutional restrictions on autocracy.

The minister of the interior fearlessly answered that revolution will be the certain consequence of failure to introduce such restrictions.

The Emperor at length requested the minister to present his ideas in the form of a written memorandum.

For fourteen days the minister worked on the memorandum, and presented it to the Emperor only a few days ago. So far the Emperor has reached no decision.

RUSSIANS SINK THEIR OWN SHIP

CHEFOO, Nov. 17.—The Russian torpedo boat destroyer Razortopy, which escaped from Port Arthur in a snowstorm and arrived here, was blown up in the harbor to prevent the Japanese from seizing her, as they did the Retshinsky in August.

The crew of Razortopy left her during the afternoon, having lighted time fuses. Soon after they reached the shore there were three explosions. The boat slowly sank and settled on the bottom. One mast above water marks her position.

JAPS CROSS OVER FROZEN SHAKKE

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Shanghai correspondent of the "Post" wires that word has reached there that the Japanese have advanced across the frozen Shakkhe River.

An important engagement, he says, is believed to be imminent.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 17.—It is reported that the Japanese intend to begin a forward movement on November 19, in an attempt to break the center of the Russian formation on the Shakkhe River.

The correspondent of the newspaper "Vedomosti" at the front, wires that the Japanese are collecting large forces on the Russian eastern front.

Scouts from that vicinity, he adds, bring the disquieting reports that the Japanese hold all the passes.

RAILWAY COST $170,000 A MILE

The section of the Czar's railroad around Lake Baikal, over which Russian troops are now being hurried to the Far Eastern war, cost $26,814,000 or nearly $170,000 a mile.

In a report just received at the State Department from United States Consul Smith at Moscow the project is declared to be one of the most difficult jobs ever undertaken by European engineers. On the western part of the road, thirty-three tunnels were cut.

Mr. Smith says that beyond Irkutsk, the Siberian railroad is closed to passenger and freight business. East of that town, the road is used entirely for military purposes.

CONDITION OF BLACK SEA FLEET

LONDON, Nov. 17.—A long report has reached the foreign office giving in detail the condition of the Russia Black Sea fleet. The report was prepared in readiness for use should the fleet attempt to pass through the Dardanelles.

In this latter connection your correspondent at Constantinople wires there will be no such attempt. The squadron, he says, would be unable to take a long voyage, and further its equipment has been weakened to fit out the Baltic fleet for sailing.

HINT OF TROUBLE DISTURBS MARKET

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The report printed in the "Morning Telegraph" that a hitch had occurred in the British-Russian negotiations had a depressing effect on the securities markets.

South African mines were heavy and foreign issues flat. Gilt-edged investment issues were weak.

DAKAR, French Africa, Nov. 17.—The vessels of the Baltic fleet, which anchored off here on Monday, sailed yesterday evening.

DISTRICT SHOULD CONTROL THE SUBURBAN LINES

reduces the cost to the District and will enable more alleys and streets to be opened under the law. The provisions of the code, under which condemnation proceedings are undertaken, are, however, cumbersome, and the Commissioners, at the last session of Congress, recommended a bill to correct the faults in the law. It is their intention to recommend the passage of the bill at this session, and they hope for favorable action on it.

Much space in the report is devoted to the needs of the water service in the District, and the danger of the present supply running short. In this connection, the following plan is suggested: A better plan would be the installation of a meter at the consumer's house, and with the ordinary repairs and wearing of a meter the cost to the consumer would exceed the present average rate, and moreover would be unequal as not being proportionate to the amount of water used.

It is reported also that legal proceedings are now in progress to carry out the nine street-extension measures enacted by the last session of Congress. Legislation is recommended "forbid business establishments" on Sixteenth Street northwest, as a saving-outrageous, even if it became necessary to slightly increase the water rent.

The question of the water supply is one that needs immediate consideration. At the present rate of consumption per capita the capacity of the existing conduit is soon reached. The chief of engineers, United States Army, has for several years recommended a survey for a new conduit.

It is reported also that legal proceedings are now in progress to carry out the nine street-extension measures enacted by the last session of Congress. Legislation is recommended "forbid business establishments" on Sixteenth Street northwest, as a saving-outrageous, even if it became necessary to slightly increase the water rent.

There is an urgent need to improve the entrance by the opening up of Sixteenth Street, and the purchase of this branch from Sixteenth Street to the park. This valley, which is wooded and very beautiful, should be a part of the park, and will give a most attractive entrance directly from Sixteenth Street. The acquisition of the park of Rock Creek below the Zoological Park is of great importance to the park development.

PRINCE FUSHIMI GOES ON VISIT TO MT. VERNON

south of the structure, where the prince participated in the planting of a Japanese maple.

The illustrious visitor threw several spadefuls of dirt on the roots of the tree. When he returns to Japan he will carry with him the spade which was used in planting the memorial.

On the way to the white oak visitors passed a pasture which harbored one lone mule. The prince was manifestly interested in the mule for he walked over to the fence and laughingly waved a cluster of leaves by way of attracting the animal's attention.

The mule was undoubtedly lacking in native courtesy for he refused absolutely to acknowledge the salute of the royal visitor in any other way than by an indifferent flapping of his voluminous ears.

When the party reached the tomb every member uncovered. The prince is evidently a great admirer of nature for again, when he espied a beautiful oak tree he stopped and gazed at a number of acorns.

Banquet Tonight.

Tonight the big event of the prince's visit will take place at the Arlington, where Mr. Hioki, as charge d'affaires of the Japanese legation, will give a dinner for the prince.

The affair will be very formal and the members of the Diplomatic Corps and the officers of the army and navy who will be present will be in full uniform.

A great many invitations have been issued to the members of the Diplomatic Corps and to Washington officials.

Prince Fushimi will leave Washington tomorrow morning at 10.50 o'clock for St. Louis. He will be accompanied by the retinue which came with him from Japan. Mr. Shosuke Akatsuka, third secretary of the legation; Mr. Belce and Colonel Symons.
